GENERAL SIGHTSEEING STRATEGIES

While there is no right or wrong way to visit new destinations, there are some sightseeing strategies you can do that will help you get the most out of your day, save a little money, and just generally have an all-around great experience.

1. ____

Not only do you get a great view of the city, but you'll get to be a part of the action as you mix with all the local folks out and about in their daily routines. It also allows you to see things at your own pace. You can stop and take photos when you want. It honestly adds so much to the overall travel experience. Don't be afraid to take some time to simply walk aimlessly around cities. Get lost. Maybe you'll find some cool things to see.

2. ____

You can't see everything and you really won't appreciate all the things you do see if you try and do it all. You'll exhaust yourself and in the end you won't even remember what you've seen. So take it easy. Try for a good mix of popular landmarks, museums, churches and cathedrals, outdoor parks and walking trails, and some lighter, perhaps not so typical things.

3. ____

There is more to travel than seeing the sights — you should also try to do something where you're an active participant. Take a cooking class. Go to a sporting event. Go skydiving. Go biking. Rent a scooter for the day. These activities might be a little expensive, but these experiences will be the things you remember most from your trip.

4. ____

Don't judge the lifestyles or customs of others if different from your own. Listen to opinions you don't agree with. It's arrogant to assume your views are correct and other people are wrong.

Embrace different possibilities, opinions, religions, customs, and interests. Ask questions. You don't have to agree with everyone, but you may be surprised what you'll learn from the people you meet during your travels.

Buying a house or renting an apartment

There are many things to consider when choosing to buy a house or rent an apartment. For example, you should think about space, finances, long-term plans, and even responsibility for repairs and maintenance. This is a big choice for any individual or family, one which requires careful thought in order to choose what is best for you.

Your financial situation is probably the easiest and simplest thing that you should consider. Whether you plan to rent or buy, you will probably be making monthly payments. But how much money can you afford to pay each month? The average cost of rent is 35% of your regular wage. In addition, remember to budget for amenities like gas, electricity and water, phone and internet connections, TV licence and council tax (if you're not a student).

A/ advises future tenants to spend less than one-third of the monthly income on housing.

B/ describes how tenants should make monthly payments.

C/ warns about some extra household expenses.

Tekst 2.

On a sandy lot in the small, growing city of Delray Beach, Florida, seven teenagers are hammering and shovelling in the hot mid-day sun. They are students from Atlantic High School and members of the school's Eagle Nest Construction Academy, which builds houses for low-income families on land donated by the city.

The program is open to boys and girls in the 9th through 12th grades. They study drafting, design and construction, then use those skills to build houses for low-income families on land donated by the city.

"They're learning the concepts in the classroom and then we're really applying them on the job site. We're actually building it - not just reading about it or drawing it on paper. We're building the house." The house is expected to be completed and ready for a family to move in the first half of next year.

Tekst 3.

The Nautilus house located near Mexico City is a unique shell-shaped house designed by Mexican architect Javier Senosiain. The house design is very innovative and unusual. Javier Senosiain decided to bring the aquatic design into architecture. Inspired by the work of Gaudí and Frank Lloyd Wright, Javier Senosiain brought the idea of buildings based on the natural principles of organic forms in harmony with nature. The rounded shapes and curves mimic the shells of the nautilus, a distant cousin to squids octopus and cuttlefish.

A young family commissioned the house because they wanted to live somewhere better integrated with their natural surroundings. The Nautilus House is wonderful to look at, walk through and enjoy for what it is – a blend of modern architecture and contemporary art.

It can be extremely hard to find time to read these days. With our lives cluttered with work, school, life, and new amazing episodes of Game of Thrones and all of these new movies….who has time to read? I have a stack of books waiting for me in my "to be read" pile.
Don't get me wrong. I absolutely love reading. I'm the one that often tries to convince friends to read. I tell them all of the amazing benefits of reading. For example, did you know that reading makes you more empathetic? It can even decrease the likelihood of Alzheimer's disease. I've been an avid reader since I was a little kid and can say that reading made a big impact on my life.
We just live in a world with so many distractions and obligations. And that's why I like very short stories. Stories that are so short that you can finish them in a single sitting, short enough to finish while you're waiting in line at the grocery store.
I was always hesitant to try short stories because I like character development and story depth. I've found, however, that great short stories can be extremely addictive and fun. There are a number of stories where I've fallen in love with the characters (more than I care to admit) despite the short length. I've even shed a tear or 2 (or 100).

6.1. One of the reasons why people don't read is:

A/ they have cluttered houses.
B/ they prefer some games.
C/ the cinemas are more attractive to them.
D/ they are very busy.

6.2. The author presents advantages of reading to:

A/ the general public
B/ hospital patients
C/ children
D/ prospective readers

6.3. One of the benefits of reading is that it:

A/ helps you to be more sympathetic.
B/ prevents some illnesses.
C/ makes your life compact.
D/ can improve your shopping habits.

6.4. Why does the author suggest reading short stories?

A/ It takes short time to finish them.
B/ One can read them while sitting.
C/ They have very short sentences.
D/ You can buy them in a grocery shop.

Summer 2021 – what are your holiday plans?

So have you booked your summer holiday yet? With a sense of relief, UK holiday restrictions are beginning to lift (from April 12) and that much needed break looks increasingly likely for many, boosting the domestic holiday let market.
Overseas holidays in contrast still remain uncertain. 7.1. [ ] Amidst a 3rd wave of COVID-19 infections, the UK remains a popular holiday destination for Brits booking for summer 2021 and beyond.
As widely reported in the media, a new 'traffic light system' is set to be introduced by government indicating which foreign destinations we'll be able to access and what restrictions will apply. Testing; the potential to have to quarantine; and the need for additional planning will all come at a cost for travellers, from both a time and monetary perspective. 7.2. [ ] Some will of course book up as soon as the green light is given for an overseas holiday, but for many, a UK holiday break will seem even more appealing as the uncertainty of foreign travel continues. If booking levels for UK holidays are anything to go by, thousands of us are thinking the same.
7.3. [ ] It was done during the first week when restrictions were eased – quite a feat during a period which is traditionally not a peak time.
With demand like this, holiday makers looking for availability during high season will no doubt find it challenging.

A/ Holidays are meant to be a time of rest and relaxation – will we really want to avoid additional problems?
B/ With dates still to be confirmed for unrestricted foreign travel and access to some destinations likely to remain heavily controlled.
C/ Covid threatens both older and younger generation as the level of infections increases.
D/ Earlier this month The Guardian reported that holiday home firm Cottages, said two-thirds of its properties in coastal locations or with hot tubs had been booked.
E/ The most popular destination for families is the south of France as it offers plenty of sunshine, warm sea and other attractions such as water parks.
